Sitting directly on Goldthwait beach with jaw-dropping views of the Atlantic Ocean from Marblehead Harbor to Tinker's Island and south to Plymouth, this extensively rebuilt (1997), updated (2016) and expandable house offers many living options. The views are spectacular, not least from the home office on the second floor - you won't be able to wait to "go to work" in the morning. And the first floor den could also work as a 4th bedroom (it has a closet and bathroom). From new appliances in the granite-countered kitchen and newly finished hardwood floors, from fresh paint throughout the house to updated bathrooms, this house is in immaculate condition. All you need to do is pack and move right in.
