This masterfully built Craftsman style home was built in 2009 with all the amenities and expectations of today's discriminating buyers while blending in perfect harmony Craftsman features with a modern flair! Features throughout incorporate a tasteful railroad theme such as a waterfall flowing under an entrance bridge buttressed by actual railroad track from the Pacific Electric tracks that once brought passengers to Sierra Madre-circa early 1900's and a caboose brake wheel opens a large storage space on the north side of the house. Additional features are listed on the attached Amenities Sheet. Offering a desirable open floorplan concept, you'll enjoy the tranquil valley views with twinkling light night views from inside the home as well as from the two balconies and the back patio. The entire upstairs consists of a lovely master suite
